Reporting Overview

Beneath the main navigation bar, the month and year of your last transaction report appears. If a report is past due, a convenient reminder appears to the right of the date in orange.

Reporting is your chance to rate your experiences with distributors.

By clicking the green Upload a New Report button (or the My Reports tab), you can easily submit your transaction reports to ASI via API, FTP or our Upload Wizard. You may also report a single transaction by clicking the blue link.

Beneath the report upload options, the average percent of the distributor customers past 90+ days for the preceding 12 reported months appears in a graph.

Hovering over any month/dot in the green line shows that month's percentage. The red line indicates the industry average, which is displayed by default. This comparison can be turned off by unchecking the box in the lower, left corner.

Next, the Average Credit Score From Your Last Report shows the average score of all distributors you have reported on in the previous month on a color-coded scale, indicating the credit risk level from high to low.

My Credit Summary assesses the reported distributors' credit ratings within the past twelve months. The highest and lowest rated distributors appear with clickable red ASI number links which generate each company's Quick View credit summary. In the event of a tie, both distributors display as the highest or lowest. In the lower part of the My Credit Summary section, you will see the percent of reported distributors in each risk group.
